Preparing your paper for submission

Chris Potts, Ling 390a: Controlling the Discourse, Fall 2007

Sep 28

Please turn this in as a coversheet for your paper.

What this is all about I'm asking these questions largely so that I can be a more informed reader of your work. You can also think of this as a chance to frame your ideas and your writing for me — to get me thinking in a particular way.

i. Please put a star next to the best section of your paper, and briefly explain here what is great about it.

ii. Please put a question mark next to the weakest section of your paper (in your view), and briefly explain here what strikes you as problematic about it.

iii. Is there anything else I should know about your paper? (Keep in mind that you are trying to positively influence me here, so you should probably reflect a bit on how you would react if you were in my shoes.)